

SAYS WOMAN WAS DEAD WHEN PUT INTO FURNACE

SIMPLE FUNERAL MONDAY FOR MRS. FLORENCE HARDING

Ex-President's Widow to Be Laid to Rest in His Tomb.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Marion, O., Nov. 22.—Funeral services Monday afternoon at Epworth M. E. church here for Mrs. Florence Harding, who died yesterday will be simple.

This was announced today by Gen. T. Christian, Jr., former secretary to Mr. Harding, who is in charge of the arrangements.

Tentative plans, Mr. Christian said, include singing of "The End of a Perfect Day" by the Columbus Republican Glee Club which, while Mr. Harding was President, was heard often at the White House. The song was Mrs. Harding's favorite and always was requested by her when any musical organization appeared to the executive mansion.

The Rev. Dr. Jesse Swank, pastor of Epworth M. E. church of which Mrs. Harding had been a member since girlhood, will deliver a short sermon. The Rev. George W. Landes, pastor of Trinity Baptist church of which Mr. Harding was a member, will read the scriptures. The funeral service at the vault where Mr. Harding will rest beside his husband will be given by Dr. Swank.

Officials as pallbearers.

Honorary pallbearers will be officials of the government from Washington, whose names have not been announced. Active pallbearers will include old friends of the Harding family. They are Malcolm Jennings of Columbus, George B. Van Fleet, E. S. Uhler, J. F. Prendergast, O. S. Tapp, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, C. D. Schaffner and J. A. Schroeder, all of Marion.

Word was received today from Rock Island, Ill., that Mrs. C. B. King, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Harding, and her daughter, Louise, who is seriously ill, would not be able to come for the services. Mr. King arrived last week at the bedside of his sister.

Mrs. Harding's body was taken late yesterday to the home of Mrs. F. J. Longshore, a daughter of Mr. King, where it will remain until the services Monday. Mrs. Harding's old home, occupied by the King family, has been closed for the winter.

Epworth church is across the street from the old King home where Mrs. Harding lived for many years.

Telegrams of sympathy continued to arrive today.

Kane Has Another Mystery Murder

JUDGE'S ORDER AGAINST WOMAN MAY KILL HER

Taken from Court at Galesburg in Serious Condition

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Musette Goff fainted in the court room of Circuit Judge Walter Frank here today when the judge in the midst of her $25,000 damage suit against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, instructed the jury to return a verdict against her. Judge Frank ordered the court room cleared when it was reported Mrs. Goff was near death. Physicians were summoned and she was removed to the home of her sister. When Judge Frank resumed the proceedings, he told attorneys for Mrs. Goff that he ordered the verdict for the defendant because the appellate court had twice ruled on the case and that the plaintiffs were not offering facts other than those of the previous trials. Mrs. Goff asked damages when her husband, Henry, brakeman, was killed in the Union Stock Yards, Chicago. The first jury returned her a $25,000 verdict, which the appellate court reversed, and a second jury gave her $15,000. This was reversed and the third trial was halted today. Doctors say Mrs. Goff's condition is serious. She has two minor children.

LABOR TO CARRY FIGHT FOR CHILD LABOR STATUTES

Will Seek Adoption of Amendment to Federal Constitution.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 22.—(By The Associated Press)—A short morning session, which concluded the first week of its meeting, brought before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor today a three hour program of partial committee reports on some fifty resolutions yet to be acted upon by the convention.

When the convention adjourned last night after approving the reports of its committee on education, calling for an intensive nation-wide campaign to secure ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution, action had been taken on 22 of its 75 resolutions. Many deal with routine matters or minor jurisdictional disputes.

The American Federation of Labor will leave no stone unturned in its endeavor to bring about ratification of this necessary legislation for the protection of children, said the committee report on child labor adopted by the convention.

Machinery for carrying on the campaign will center in some 32,000 local affiliated bodies throughout the country, the report said.

"To safeguard children," it is not only the economic reasons that the citizenship of our country is urged to ratify the proposed amendment to the constitution. It is one of the highest duties of the men and women of our time to safeguard the childhood of America.

Other recommendations of the committee on education include support of the Sterling-Rood bill and advocacy of increased federal appropriations for education.

"The American Federation of Labor believes that an appropriation of one hundred million dollars a year for state aid is necessary for the purpose of equalizing educational opportunities, removing illiteracy, promoting physical education, improving teaching and encouraging educational research," the committee reported.

Endorsement of the American Legion campaign for a $5,000,000 endowment fund for rehabilitation, child welfare and kindred subjects was given in a resolution urging affiliated unions to render moral and financial support to the enterprise.

Activities to popularize the union label and to expand and extend the service of the labor press were authorized.

Sought Bloodhounds to Track Robbers at Lanark
Carroll county authorities sought to secure bloodhounds this morning in an effort to trace robbers who entered two places of business in Lanark last night. Sheriff Risley was called on the phone about 9 o'clock and asked where hounds could be secured.

The Newcomer clothing store was entered during the night and as far as is known, only a pair of hip rubber boots were taken. Entrances were gained through a rear basement door and the intruders were unsuccessful in their attempt to get into the main store on the first floor.

The hardware store of Eckman & Son was also entered and the stock ransacked. As far as was known this morning, only a few boxes of shot gun shells and flash lights were missing. Police stated that they believed the work to be that of home talent and an effort was being made to secure blood hounds to track the robbers.

BODY OF MAN FOUND ALONG PAVED HI-WAY

Had Been Shot in Head

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aurora, Ill., Nov. 22.—Shot through the head, the body of a powerfully built young man was found today south of Aurora on a paved road running between two cemeteries.

From papers found on the body the police believe the remains those of J. Cherbo, 3344 Aenslie Street, Chicago. The clothes were made by the "Albany Park Greatest Clothiers, Chicago."

The man apparently was murdered and thrown from an automobile. There were no powder burns where the bullet entered the skull nor on the clothing. Chief of Police Nichols said he thought the slain man "was probably shot in the gang warfare of Chicago beer runners."

SENATE FACES
TWO IMPORTANT
BILLS AT ONCE

Must Enact Measures
Which Have Passed
Lower House.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 22.—The senate with its return to work Monday, Dec. 1, will find on its legislative calendar two bills regarded by the administration as of prime importance. One is the second deficiency appropriation bill and the other a naval construction bill.

Senate leaders will attempt to secure speedy action on both.

The deficiency measure would make available approximately $160,000,000. If this amount $132,000,000 would be to cover expenses incidental to putting into operation the payment of the soldiers' bonus. Another large appropriation will be for the coast guard service.

Although both the bonus and the coast guard work was carried out, the money for this purpose was taken from funds which happened to be available and the measure now must be enacted to replace this money.

The naval bill would authorize the construction of eight cruisers and six river gunboats and the conversion of several coal burning battleships into oil burners. This measure, as did the deficiency bill, received favorable action by the house.

It is the belief that the naval bill will be brought up for early action, and probably will be the only piece of large naval construction authorized by the present congress.

REPORT OF R. I. GRAND JURY IS EXPECTED MON.

Has Practically Finished
Probing the Charges Against Four

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 22.—(By The Associated Press)—The Rock Island County grand jury which has been called in special session to investigate charges of murder against four leading business men—J. W. Potter, J. M. Colligan, Jacob Rammer and Thos. Haeger—is expected to report its findings in circuit court next Monday noon. The jury recessed Friday afternoon until Monday, all witnesses except twelve having been heard by the jury.

The murder charge is made by Anthony W. Billburg and George Holsapple, convicted of the murder they are accusing the four defendants of participating in and under sentence to the penitentiary for 20 and 14 year terms, respectively. The crime the four men are alleged to have taken part in, was the killing of John Conroy, victim of an underworld gang battle in the heart of the city in October, 1922. The four men deny complicity in the gun play.

Mayor Walter A. Rosenfield yesterday issued a statement in which he warned that the present proceeding inspired by Billburg and Holsapple is the last stand of the Billburg and Looney underworld forces which the mayor declares have reunited in an effort to regain control of the city and county governments, which they designated for years, for the purpose of reinstating the underworld which was suppressed two years ago when citizens organized and fought the criminal elements.

John Looney, rival of Billburg for control of the old Rock Island underworld, under various indictments here has been a fugitive from justice for two years.

The opinion is widely expressed that, notwithstanding the Egyptian officials' compliance with the customary formalities and their expressions of regret, the murder was actually a political crime or gratifying in a desire to oust the British from the Sudan.

The Daily Mail editorially demands that Great Britain revoke its grant of independence to Egypt which it maintains has shown a lack of political capacity.

It will be remembered that in the Aurora-Dixon contest here, the visitors secured every advantage in the "breaks" of the game and it was through this that they won by a score of 17 to 0.

VOTE SLACKERS OF 1924.

Despite the intensive national campaign to "get out the vote," it's now estimated that only about half of the eligible voters went to the polls and cast their ballots.

More voted than in 1920, to be sure—several millions more. But the population increased materially in the last four years. The gain in voters was offset by the gain in citizens entitled to vote.

Now, what's the reason for this continued drift toward government by minority—a condition which, may experts claim, already has arrived? They claim that more than half of the eligible voters stayed at home instead of balloting for president this year.

One possible explanation is that the number of people entitled to vote has been exaggerated. Such is improbable, to any material extent. Even so, it doesn't eliminate the undeniable truth that "vote slacking" hasn't been checked.

Getting people to vote is a double job: Inducing them to the polls is one thing; inducing them to register is another. It amounts to a problem of enticing them to come to bat twice. But even this isn't the major cause.

When a problem such as "vote slacking" cannot be explained by psychology, by indifference or by lack of patriotism, it's a pretty safe bet that in the final analysis it is a matter of the pocketbook.

Most of our political, social and economic problems simmer down to matters of money. It is probable that millions of people stay away from the polls for this reason:

They fear that registering and casting ballots will put them on the local taxation list which many have managed to evade.

Our cities are gorged with residents who "beat the law" in the matter of state, county or municipal taxes. The tax slackers sense that if their names get on the record they will shortly receive a tax blank for listing their savings accounts, household furniture and other personal property which so many of them have concealed from the levy.

Are the majority of "vote slackers" simply "tax slackers"?

The problem of getting more citizens to vote in the national elections is a constant problem. The error in 1924 was in campaigning at the last moment.

If we want to induce them to vote in 1928, a campaign to that end must be waged steadily for the next four years. "Vote slacking" is a big problem. And no big problem can be solved by overnight education. Reformers know this is a fixed and unalterable law. Time and patience are necessary.

UNTIL DEATH DO US PART.

Here is romance of the sort that persists through all human history. Mary MacLaren, one of the pioneer movie stars, has retired from the screen. Married about a month ago in California, she has sailed with her husband, a British army officer, to spend the rest of their days at army posts.

From the fascinating life of movieland, Mary MacLaren retires to the obscurity of a lonely military station in northern India.

You are familiar with her screen work, among the more recent being "The Face in the Fog" with Lionel Barrymore, "The Uninvited Guest" and "The Dark Swan," this latter filmed in Jamaica with considerable color photoplay.

To young women who are deluded that a star career in the movies would be the greatest thing life could give them, we recommend the wise example of Mary MacLaren.

She knew, in spurning her movie career for a home at the outskirts of civilization, that love is the greatest thing in life. More than that, it—with the joy of parenthood—is the only thing that really counts.

The young woman who is happily married has something far better than movie stardom. Happiness is in obeying natural processes. And nature intended us primarily to work for a living and to reproduce. Commendable is the desire for a career to perform service for humanity, whether the service is in making drudgery easier for all or counteracting monotony and making people forget their troubles for the moment by entertaining them on the silver screen or otherwise.

Understandable, too, is the desire for a career based on a craving to shine in the spot-lights. All is vanity.

What, after all, is real success? It is not in the mere obtaining of power. Nor is it in acquiring vast riches. Supreme success is in being a good citizen and a good father or mother—making loved ones happy, keeping the home as our greatest institution, and bringing into life babies, then guiding them that they may better perform the tasks of this spiritual gymnasium known as life.

FAILED.

Number of business failures has been low, considering dull times. So far this year, 1700 firms a month have gone to the wall. That looks like a lot, but not when you recall that the total of business organizations is around two millions. A lot of the men with small-profit businesses would be better off if they failed and had to get into something else. Being your own boss is not always what it's cracked up to be.

ANIMALS.

Elephants are the most intelligent of all animals, monkeys next, dogs third, says Lorenz Hagenback of the noted German family of wild beast dealers.

Why argue about it? There never was an elephant, money or dog that had a tenth the intelligence of the average three-year-old boy or girl. Patient training is frequently mistaken for intelligence. But that's as true of people as of animals.

A clever girl is one who keeps a man under the impression that he is making love to her.

It was all done up in pink and blue satin ribbon and looked wonderful.

"Here's a riddle in rhyme," said the Riddle Lady. "See if you can guess it!"

"The fairies have spun some lace so fine. 'Twould never do for a dress of mine. But 'twould be fine for an elfin fay, Who wouldn't mind if it blew away."

"The silver thread was spun at night, From a single shred of moonbeam bright, And patterned after the rising sun, With rays like wheel-spokes neatly run."

"When each fine piece was done—then tried, And all spread out on the grass and dried. (For moonbeam lace, when fairies get through, Is sure to be damp on account of the dew.)"

"It looked like fairyland washing day, If you had chanced to pass that way, And you'd never dream each skirt and blouse, Was nothing else than a spider's house."

"Is it a cobweb?" shivered Miss Muffet.

"That's exactly what it is," said the Riddle Lady. "A cobweb. What will you have for a prize, my dear?"

"A box of candy, if you please," said Miss Muffet promptly. "I am tired of curds and whey."

"A five-pound box of chocolate drops for Miss Muffet," said the Riddle Lady.

die Lady. So the footman in red velvet who did all her errands as well as drive her coach and four, brought a lovely box of candy to the little girl. It was all done up in pink and blue satin ribbon and looked wonderful, and I do wish that if anybody writes another poem about her that he will make it something like this:

"Little Miss Muffet she sat on a tuffet, Eating chocolates all done up in blue, Now if I had spied 'er ere they got inside 'er, I'd have made her call, wouldn't you?"

But there is room for another riddle so I'll tell you the next one the Riddle Lady asked. Really it is as easy as pie. Almost as easy as two pies.

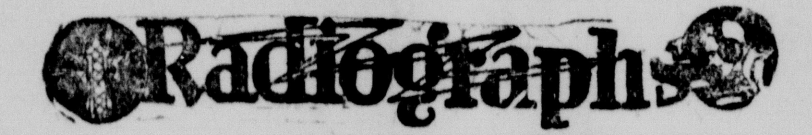

"My finger wears a little hat, It's good for this but not for that. It has no feathers, or flowers, or bows, But polka-dots all set in rows."

The Maiden All Forlorn guessed it at once. "It's a thimble," she cried. "And if that's the prize, I need one. The Man All Tattered And Torn must be mended up before our wedding day."

"Here it is," said the Riddle Lady handing it to her. "I wish I could guess something," whispered Nick to Nancy.

"What would you do with a thimble?" Nancy wanted to know. "Any-way there are lots more coming."

TRANSMISSION OF MESSAGE BY RADIO ASSURED

Such is Prediction of Chief of U. S. Army Signal Service.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 22.—The association of "photography with radio" points to a revolutionary change in the fundamental methods of communication transmission.

Military experts are watching the advances of communication sciences and authorize the statement, made public today in the annual report of Major General C. McK. Saltzman, chief of the Army Signal Corps, that messages of the future, whether written, printed or mixed with diagrams and photographs, will, "it seems certain, soon be transmitted photographically by radio frequency at a rate tens of times faster than was ever possible by the dot and dash methods of hand transmission."

"Looking into the future of signal communication for a moment," General Saltzman says, "it appears that the basic method of breaking messages into words, words in to letters, letters into dots and dashes, and then passing these through the wrist of an operator, as has been the practice since Morse's fundamental invention of the electric telegraph, seems to be nearing the end of a cycle. Mechanical transmitters with higher speed qualities are becoming stabilized and American invention seems to be making further and rapid progress in associating photography with radio, which bids fair to revolutionize fundamental methods of transmission."

Predicts Faster Messages.

"The message of the future, whether it be written, printed or mixed with diagrams and photographs, including the signature of the sender, will, it seems certain, soon be transmitted photographically by radio frequency at a rate tens of times faster than was ever possible by the dot and dash methods of hand transmission."

"Military messages of the future, particularly in active operations, may contain diagrams and sketches of even entire sheets of maps, all transmitted as part of the same message and by means of which detection or listening in will be reduced to a very low minimum."

The signal corps is keeping abreast of this progress and will undertake experiments to establish the military value of this invention."

General Saltzman points out that the army deserves considerable credit for the work of procuring and laying down cable replacements on the Washington-Alaska cable and telegraph system. During the year ended June 30, the report shows, the cable ship Delwood laid 555 miles of submarine cable from Seattle to Ketchikan, Alaska, and soon would complete the project at a figure far less than would have cost the government had the job been given to commercial enterprise.

The Delwood was obtained from the United States Shipping Board and equipped for its task in Alaskan waters. The main point in the acquisition of the vessel and the laying of the cable replacement, the report adds: "Is that the Delwood ushers in the first time a cableship under the American flag, capable of carrying on deep sea submarine cable operations in any ocean, and capable also of carrying in her tanks a thousand miles or more of cable, a fact which may prove of inestimable value to the country."

Buick Continues its Leadership

For the seventh consecutive year Buick has first choice of space at the National Automobile Shows. This signal honor is awarded annually by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce to the manufacturer-member having the largest volume of business for the preceding twelve months.

In winning and in maintaining this enviable position year after year, Buick has demonstrated conclusively that the true value of any automobile is reflected in the consistency with which the public buys it.

Since the introduction of the 1925 Buick models, public patronage has increased to an even greater degree.

A tribute to the Buick engineering skill and manufacturing ability that have provided newer and better Buick cars without departing in any way from the fundamentals of power, economy and dependability for which all Buicks have been famous.

SCOUT MOVEMENT GIVEN IMPETUS AT GYROS' MEET

District Director for Or- ganization Gave Fine Address.

About a hundred Dixon business and professional men, including members of the Gyro club of this city, under whose auspices the meeting was held, and members of the various Boy Scout organizations of the city, enjoyed a banquet and program at the Elks club last evening, at which time an appeal was made to the business and professional men of Dixon, as well as to the "dads" of Dixon boys, to get back of an organized movement for Boy Scouts in a section, to be composed of Lee and Ogle counties, with the chief troops in Dixon, Amboy, Rochelle and Oregon. F. D. Chadwick of Chicago, regional scout executive, was the speaker who presented the matter to those who attended.

Following the banquet, Dr. L. R. Evans, president of the club, after briefly reviewing the purpose of the new organization in Dixon, which is proving very active service, introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Chadwick called upon the Boy Scouts with their scoutmaster, Rev. George C. Story, to arise and give the oath and pledge of a scout. He then proceeded to outline the purposes and aims of the Boy Scout organization as being carried on in the United States today.

Purposes of the Organization

"The Scout program is one that takes care of the worthwhile activities of a boy's leisure time. He is first taught his duty to his God and this is followed by the teaching of a high degree of patriotism. 'The Boy Scouts is not a military organization as is altogether too many times presumed. Firearms are not allowed to be carried by the Scouts on a hike or in their camps. True, there is a marksmanship test and in some instances the Scouts carry firearms but this is not the wish of the organization leaders. 'The oath that you have just heard these boys recite is a wonderful thing. God, country, laws, good turns, physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight. This oath is in the form of a demand that the Boy Scout live up to it. 'When a boy goes wrong in a community, he should not first be pointed out as a Boy Scout and then censured. I would first investigate and find out who his teacher is; who his scoutmaster is; his pastor or spiritual advisor and who his parents are. Today we hear a great deal of juvenile delinquency. I might apply a new term in this connection as it comes to me through observation and study and all it parental inefficiency. 'Men Partly to Blame. 'If a boy is sidetracked in Dixon, you men are partly to blame by not affording him the proper protection. What boy in your city who is taught the scout oath and law, is going to go wrong. True some do, but instead of spreading his wrong doing through the press and pointing the finger of scorn and shame at him, the Scout method would afford him that protection that he needs. 'Fathers of boys are largely responsible for their sons not having that confidence that they should have. Every father in Dixon or any other community should count it a great pleasure to be a 'dad'. The fathers should fully realize their duty as fathers to son, by the religious education provided in the boy's early life. All boys are good but we must realize that they often get bad handling especially by their fathers. Every time a boy goes wrong a good man dies. What does the average boy need to keep him straight? Parents, church and school. A boy first wishes for an education, then a good job, next a good home, a beautiful wife and a family of children. Many of the boys are sidetracked. Every boy is entitled by birth to assistance in the definite planning of his life course. The great loss comes when the individual undermines his confidence, his hope, his courage which all serve to rob him of his will power. 'Judgment Based on Shadow. 'The judgment of the world is based largely upon the shadow which the individual casts and good citizenship, which seems to be the idea of youth today, must be safeguarded by keeping the mind clean and the body strong. A broken will is a greater misfortune than a crippled body to a boy; directed will is the greatest of all boy possessions—guides instead of drives. I would rather be a successful father than the richest and most influential man in the state of Illinois and give to my state and country the right kind of a boy. I count it a sacred privilege to give my boy, step by step, the intimate information he needs. Best of all, practice physical fitness and have patience with a double standard of morals for anyone. Fathers must realize fully that no one no matter how good their intention, can so satisfactorily interpret the Fatherhood of God to boys as a good father, or make plain to them the real message of their elder brother, the Man of Galilee, and so set their best selves to the challenging task of religious education. When parenthood is rewarded in the character of children who justify their heritage of love and hope on the part of the parents, this is the sublimest spectacle of human joy. 'Winning a prize from life is like gathering a crop from the garden. Unless we dig deep, putting our backs to the job, unless we feed the soil, and seed and water, weed and cultivate, rise early and stay out late, we never harvest the crop of our dreams. We put our best into a thing and the best comes back to us. A life time of struggle and sorrow, hope and fear, must go into our efforts if we are to win the high prize of character and Christian citizenship we covet. Nothing comes out of nothing. The worth while never comes easily. Once we realize that the loneliness and pain and the seemingly senseless drudgery of the day-by-day living is the price of growing our souls to where they will yield something fine in love and friendship

Maroons Plan Desperate Battle to Clinch Title

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 22.—A desperate struggle was in prospect in the meeting here today of Chicago, leading Western Conference title contender and Wisconsin, trailing in the rear of the other Big Ten teams without a conference victory.

A victory for Chicago meant the undisputed title of champion.

Illinois, Minus Grange, Tackles Ohio at Urbana

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Champaign, Nov. 22.—Deprived of "Red" Grange, Illinois engaged Ohio here today with the question at issue whether the Illini made their former conference victories as a "one man" team.

Coach Zuppke had a rebuilt attack and reorganized team ready to launch against the Buckeyes. Green was slated to start in Grange's place and Gallivan was a likely sub at quarter for Harry Hall, injured in the Minnesota game. Captain Rokusek was moved to left tackle.

The Buckeye ranks included the fleet Ollie Klee, who broke up the Ohio-Illinois game two years ago by a sprint in the last few minutes. Coach Wiles planned to put him in at some stage in the melee.

Northwestern Hopes to Hold Notre Dame Down

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 22.—An inspired and determined Northwestern which held Chicago last week to a 3-0 victory provided the current opposition to the gallop of Notre Dame's cavalry toward a national football championship in Chicago's new civic stadium today. All seats of the stands were disposed of days ago.

Western Conference Cross- Country Run on this P. M.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 22.—Athletes representing all of the Western Conference schools except Purdue and six non-conference teams, took the field today in the annual cross country race of the Western Conference.

Non-conference entries included teams from Iowa State, Marquette, Notre Dame, Michigan Aggies, Oberlin and Ohio Wesleyan. Ohio State and Wisconsin were considered likely winners of the hill and work, those greatly to be desired gifts, we will not grudge to pay. We must teach our boys. And then we will yield ourselves regally, and life will repay us in riches of content and peace and high happiness."

Outline Scout Plan

The speaker then outlined the plan of organizing Lee and Ogle counties in a unit to work together. Scout leadership today, he said, was not a job but a profession and added the courses were now outlined and available in colleges and universities in the country.

Rev. George C. Story, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, who is probably the most actively engaged in Scout work of any man in Dixon, was called upon for a few remarks. Rev. Story gained his early Scout training under Baden Powell, originator of the Boy Scout plan in England at the close of the Boer war. Since his early training, Rev. Story has been continuously engaged in the work.

H. H. Hunt, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., was also called upon and related some facts concerning his work as scoutmaster in Canada. Mr. Hunt stated that the greatest influences brought to bear upon boy's life between the ages of 12 and 18 years of age, at which age he is inclined to be a hero-worshiper and that it was to be regretted that too often, the hero was not his "dad."

Dundee's Manager Barred from N. Y. Ring Forever

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Nov. 22.—Three featherweight boxers stand out in the tournament held under the auspices of the New York State Athletic Commission. Kid Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., Danny Kramer of Philadelphia and Jose Lombardo of Panama remain in the running as the result of preliminary bouts held in Madison Square Garden last night.

Billy Defoe of St. Paul and Babe Herman of New York, alternates, will appear in the semi-final tests three weeks from now. Herman is scheduled to meet Johnny Leonard of Allentown, Pa., Thanksgiving.

Kaplan eliminated Bobby Garcia of Camp Holabird, Md., Kramer was given a decision over Mike Dundee of Rock Island and Lombardo, won from Lou Paluso of Salt Lake City.

Awarding of the decision to Kramer was hooted by the crowd. Dick Curley, Dundee's manager, had to be escorted from the arena by police after he had argued with one of the judges and attacked Referee Haley. The state athletic commission barred Curley from New York boxing forever.

HARMON SCHOOL NOTES

A good program will be given Wednesday afternoon Nov. 25. It consists mostly of musical numbers. The primary room will give the following numbers: Lullaby—Primary girls; Recitation—Daniel Leonard; Recitation numbers—Florence Long and Clifford Harnis; Group of Songs—primary folks; Exercise—How Thanksgiving Came to November. The intermediate grades will appear in two musical numbers. A Thanksgiving song by all and Pledge of the Union by the intermediate girls. The grammar grades have two very good numbers also. They have just learned a new coda, Comrades of the Road, and the boys as well as the girls do splendid work in carrying out their different parts. Their other number is a song, Hawaiian Love Nest. In this number there is also a fine blending of voices especially for grammar grade pupils. The high school students and teachers will render a three part chorus entitled, "Waken, Lords and Ladies Gay." The Elizabethan Literary Society will sing, "When the Roses bid Summer Goodbye." The society's other musical numbers are as follows: Trio—Vera McCormick, Gladys Smith and Eva Swab; Violin selection—Eva Swab; Banjo selection—Vera McCormick. Other numbers are: Class Magazine by Lenora Swab and Mary Whitmore. School news, Agnes Walters; Current Events, Charlotte Garland; Jokes, Everett Behrendt; Nature study talk, "The Meadow Lark," Evelyn Roberts; Stunts, society. The following boys are working to give orations for the next Elizabethan program: Cloyd Ostrander, Harold Huyett, Joe Ostrander and Clarence Huyett. The program is free. The parents and other people of the district and community are invited.

There will be no school Friday after Thanksgiving. The Lee Center and Harmon grade teams will clash in a game of basketball on our grounds at 2 p. m. Both schools have some fast players in the grades. This will be the first game for both teams and it will not doubt be a very amusing game. Joe Barlow of Amboy will referee.

Monday night Nov. 24 our high school boys will play their last game of outdoor basketball this season. Franklin Grove is sending down a large and fast team. In the last game between the two teams the game was nip and tuck. For several minutes near the end of the last quarter the game was a tie and neither team was able to secure a lead. Finally Walters of Harmon succeeded in making a field goal which won the game for Harmon by a score of 10-8. Harmon, however, would not have won had it not been for Frank Rhodenbaugh, who made the three clever field throws in the first quarter. That gave Harmon a lead and rather worried the opposing team all through the game. The guarding of Everett Behrendt and the quick passing of Oliver Pinkenbinder and Cloyd Ostrander also deserve much honorable mention. Admission is cents.

The school dance given at Ostrander's Community Hall was well attended and the behavior of the crowd was certainly a boost for good dances in Harmon. Everyone reports a most enjoyable time and many requests have been made to have another in the near future. Mr. Ostrander deserves many thanks for making it a success. Had it not been for his help the large hall on the first floor could not have been given the accommodation and inviting appearance. When the couples came into the check room and saw the two long tables arranged in banquet style they at once made a decision to enjoy the occasion during the supper hour. As corn picking will be mostly over in a few weeks from now, the crowd at the next dance may be larger but a most sociable, congenial, happy, and well behaved crowd can not be expected as the crowd was unusually strong in those commendable features.

Every day is bargain day at

The Chain Store

THE customer enters to spend twenty cents and departs having spent a dollar. The answer to this paradox is found in the almost unbelievable variety of attractive goods displayed for selection at plainly marked prices. The appeal is so irresistible that sales talk is unnecessary.

The shopping public was quick to show its appreciation of the low prices and dependable merchandise offered by the Chain Store. No "bargain sale" publicity is necessary to lure the people to these emporiums of household articles and table necessities—every day is bargain day at the Chain Store.

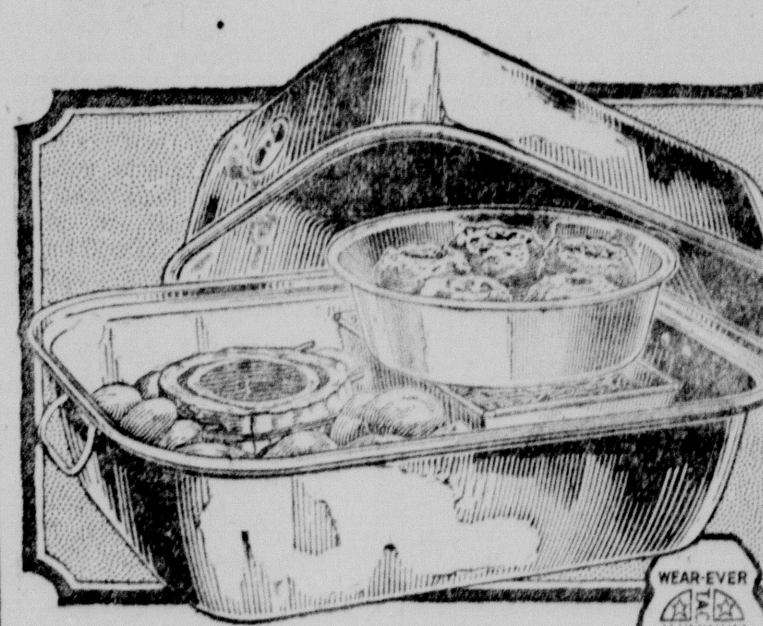

In the further development of the United Stores Corporation, a leading Chain Store concern, now operating over 1000 stores, we are offering its 7 percent Prior Preferred Stock, having a conversion privilege which we believe will prove profitable.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitaphone picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"You are no longer that," she said, and strove to smile.

"Yet I owe no thanks to you that I am not," he answered. "I think there's no more to be said, unless it be to add the assurance that Lord Julian Wade has also nothing to apprehend from me. That, no doubt, will be the assurance that your peace of mind requires."

"For your own sake—yes. But for your own sake only. I would not have you do anything mean or dishonouring."

"Thief and pirate though I be!" she clenched her hand, and made a little gesture of despair and impatience.

"Will you never forgive me those words?"

"I'm finding it a trifle hard, I confess. But what does it matter, when all is said?"

Her clear hazel eyes considered him a moment wistfully. Then she put out her hand again.

"I am going, Captain Blood. Since you are so generous to my uncle, I shall be returning to Barbados with him. We are not like to meet again—ever. Is it impossible that we should part friends? Once I wronged you, I know. And I have said that I am sorry. Won't you... won't you say 'good-bye'?"

He took the hand she proffered. Retaining it, he spoke, his eyes dimly, wistfully considering her.

"You are returning to Barbados?"

"And you? Glory be, ye'll not be telling me ye refused to become 'M. Lady.'"

"No," he said slowly. "Will Lord Julian be going with you?"

"Why do you ask me that?" she confronted him quite fearlessly.

"Sure, now, didn't he give you my message, or did he bungle it?"

"No. He didn't bungle it. He gave it me in your own words. It touched me very deeply. It made me see clearly my error and my injustice. I owe it to you that I should say this by way of amendment. I judged too harshly where it was a presumption to judge at all."

"And Lord Julian, then?" he asked, his eyes watching her, bright as sapphires in the copper-coloured face.

"Lord Julian will no doubt be going home to England. There is nothing more for him to do out here."

"But didn't he ask you to go with him?"

"He did. I forgive you the impertinence."

A wild hope leapt to life within him.

"And you? Glory be, ye'll not be telling me ye refused to become my lady, when..."

"Oh! You are insufferable!" She tore her hand free and backed away from him. "I should not have come... Good-bye!" She was speeding to the door.

He sprang after her, and caught her. Her face flamed, and her eyes stabbed him like daggers. "These are pirate's ways, I think! Release me!"

"Arabella!" he cried on a note of pleading. "Are ye meaning it? Must I release ye? Must I let ye go and never set eyes on ye again? Or will ye stay and make this exile endurable until we can go home together? Ooh, ye're crying now! What have I said to make ye cry, my dear?"

"I... I thought you'd never say it," she mocked him through her tears. "There was never, never anybody but you, Peter."

Governor Blood forgot the duties of his office. He had reached home at last. His odyssey was ended.

They had, of course, a deal to say thereafter, so much, indeed, that they sat down to say it, whilst time sped on, and Governor Blood forgot the duties of his office. He had reached home at last. His odyssey was ended.

And meanwhile Colonel Bishop's feet had come to anchor, and the Colonel had landed on the mole, a disgruntled man to be disgruntled further yet. He was accompanied ashore by Lord Julian Wade.

A corporal's guard was drawn up to receive him, and in advance of this stood Major Mallard and two others who were unknown to the Deputy Governor: one slight and elegant, the other big and brawny.

Major Mallard advanced. "Colonel Bishop, I have orders to arrest you. Your sword, sir!"

Bishop stared, empuing. "What the devil? Arrest me, d'ye say? Arrest me?"

"By order of the Governor of Jamaica," said the elegant little man behind Major Mallard. Bishop swung to him.

"The Governor? You're mad!" He looked from one to the other.

"I am the Governor."

"You were," said the little man dryly. "But we've changed that in your absence. You're broke for abandoning your post without due cause and therefore impeding the settlement over which you had charge. It's a serious matter, Colonel Bishop, as you may find. Considering that you held your office from the Government of King James, it is even possible that a charge of treason may lie against you. It rests with your successor entirely whether ye're hanged or not."

Bishop rapped out an oath, and then, shaken by a sudden fear: "Who the devil may you be?" he asked.

"I am Lord Willoughby, Governor-General of His Majesty's Colonies in the West Indies. You were informed, I think, of my coming."

The remains of Bishop's anger fell from him like a cloak. He broke into a sweat of fear. Behind him Lord Julian looked on, his handsome face suddenly white and drawn.

"But, my Lord—" began the Colonel.

"Sir, I am not concerned to hear your reasons," his Lordship interrupted harshly. "I am on the point of sailing and I have not the time. The Governor will hear you and no doubt deal justly by you." He waved to Major Mallard, and Bishop, a crumpled, broken man, allowed himself to be led away.

To Lord Julian, who went with him, since none deterred him, Bishop expressed himself when presently he had sufficiently recovered.

"This is one more item to the account of that scoundrel Blood," he said through his teeth. "My God, what a reckoning there will be when we meet!"

Major Mallard turned away his face that he might conceal his smile, and without further words led him a prisoner to the Governor's house that so long had been Colonel Bishop's own residence. He was left to wait under guard in the hall, whilst Major Mallard went ahead to announce him.

Miss Bishop was still with Peter Blood when Major Mallard entered. His announcement startled them back to realities.

"You will be merciful with him. You will spare him all you can for my sake, Peter," she pleaded.

"To be sure I will," said Blood, "but I'm afraid the circumstances won't."

She effaced herself, escaping into the garden and Major Mallard fetched the Colonel.

"His Excellency, the Governor, will see you now," said he, and threw wide the door.

Colonel Bishop staggered in and stood waiting.

At the table sat a man of whom nothing was visible but the top of a carefully curled, black head. Then this head was raised, and a pair of blue eyes solemnly regarded the prisoner. Colonel Bishop made a noise in his throat, and stared into the face of His Excellency, the Deputy Governor of Jamaica, which was the face of the man he had been hunting in Tortuga to his present undoing.

The situation was best expressed to Lord Willoughby by Van der Kuylen as the pair stepped aboard the Admiral's flagship.

"Id is fery boodigal!" he said, his blue eyes twinkling. "Cabdan Blood is foud of boodry—ye remember de abble blossoms. So? Ha, ha!"

Any owner will tell you that almost as soon as a fire is lighted in the COLONIAL, the warmth starts moving up into the rooms. After the furnace has been closed tight all night, you adjust the regulator chains and within just a little while the whole house is warm.

When you understand the COLONIAL Better Heating Principle you will appreciate how this instant heating is possible. First, the COLONIAL Fire Pot produces an intense heat the instant the fire is started. Fresh air, introduced through air vents in the fire pot walls, mixes with the gases, intensifying the heat.

Next, the COLONIAL Radiator traps the heat that ordinarily escapes up the chimney. A long smoke travel allows much of this heat to become absorbed by the radiator walls.

Then, since the COLONIAL Heating Chamber is dome shaped, the flame and heated gases come in direct contact with the whole surface. At once the heat flows upward.

Come in and examine the COLONIAL Better Heating Principle. One furnace that's back to its 1917 price.

New York—For the first time in this country a Chinese restaurant, that is, one for which Chinese are wholly responsible, has gone into bankruptcy.

It is the Bamboo Gardens, a basement chop suey cafe in the Broadway bright light district.

This Chinese venture might not have gone on the rocks if its celestial backers hadn't aped American methods. The restaurant accommodates 1000 diners, and $88,000 was spent on decorating it when it opened recently.

The first move made by the receiver was to greatly reduce the number of the Chinese waiters, although many of the Chinese waiters were investors in the venture.

For several years a blind youth has fared very well along Times Square by beating a staccato tattoo on the sidewalk with his cane.

His is not a casual tapping of the cane like that of a blind man feeling his way. There is something as insistent about it as the morning alarm. Pedestrians do not just get out of his way. Most of them stop to put coins in his hat.

I saw this fellow selling newspapers the other night. So many other blind pencil-peddlers have copied his novel method of cane tapping that he gave up the field to them.

Street fakers are increasing in number daily. They are fellows who have roamed the country during the summer months but with the coming winter they head into New York to pick up a few easy dimes on the sidewalks. With one eye for the cops and one eye for business they generally can sell enough gim-cracks to buy bed and meals. If a cop heaves into view they pick up their paraphernalia and disappear as though the earth had swallowed them.

ANY WOMAN, any man, can now have a well-developed face and form. The whole, simple secret of a well-developed form is in the number of blood-cells in your body. You can now forget all the theoretical talk about diet, exercise, fad treatments, food-fats and fat-foods. Nothing is of any use, after all, except blood-cells! Thin, run-down men and women, with bony necks, sunken cheeks, bony shoulders—all these are suffering from one thing—too few blood-cells. Science has proved that S.S.S. helps to make the rich red-blood-cells, which you need. Your blood is starving for these new blood-cells! Give your blood the blood-cells it needs—take S.S.S., the great scientific blood-cell maker. S.S.S. has done marvels, too, in making beautiful complexions, clearing the skin, making lips rosy red, the cheeks full and plump—because it rids the blood of impurities which cause pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash and rheumatism, too. As the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. This is why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Start taking S.S.S. today and your great problem, that of your personal appearance, can be solved.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The following concerning the annual hunt was handed to us by one who was present and had the best time ever. These hunts are most nearly enjoyed by a number of men the first of November, yearly, and some of the stories they tell about the good times are worth listening to:

Sunday, November 16th, the hunters of Franklin Grove celebrated their annual hunting party. This is an annual affair and is looked forward to with great anticipation. The start of the hunt is at Franklin Grove and the finish at one of the Lehman cottages at White Rock. It is customary for some of the party to go ahead in cars and have dinner prepared for the hunters when they arrive. Yesterday a total of eighteen rabbits were bagged by the hunters.

Great anxiety existed among the party for about two hours when one of the party, Fred H. Hansen, became lost in the woods. Several searching parties were sent out and after about two hours of search Mr. Hansen was located. Mr. Hansen is well acquainted with the portion of the woods in which he became lost and he states that his confusion was the result of a misunderstanding of directions.
